AFTERMATH

MILLBURY MEMORIAL HIGH SCHOOL

Millbury, Massachusetts

1968

Do You Know . . .

. . . the spectacled man with the ready smile whose wit often inspires laughter from those around him?

Do you know the man who spends so many hours working with the students on the yearly magazine drive?

If so, you know Mr. Paul A. Lacouture, the head of the Commercial Department, through whose help and guidance many of our graduates have gone on to successful business careers.

It is to you, Mr. Lacouture, that we proudly dedicate the 1968 AFTERMATH and say "thanks" for your hard work and patience.

. . . Mr. Lacouture

In Appreciation

We, the Class of 1968, wish to express our appreciation and gratitude to Mr. Stephen Beaton who has served as superintendent of the Millbury Public School System since 1960. Prior to his appointment as superintendent, Mr. Beaton served as principal of Millbury Memorial High School. He has also been a member of our faculty. We extend our thanks to Mr. Beaton for his dedication to the students of Millbury throughout his career, and our best wishes go with him as he leaves the office of superintendent.

Mr. Beaton

Mr. Raymond Shaw was appointed principal at Millbury Memorial High School in 1960. He was well equipped for this tremendous job because he had experienced almost all the problems that a teacher or principal has, for he had been both. For many years students have appreciated his knowledge in dealing with student problems, supervising school activities, and maintaining a strict discipline in an unusual blend of authority and understanding. In this year of his retirement from service in public education, we, the class of 1968, representing all the classes that have been graduated during his tenure, take this opportunity to thank Mr. Shaw. His guidance, not only in his vocation but also in his avocations, has earned Mr. Shaw a place of highest esteem in all our hearts.

Somewhere My Love

Address of Welcome

Parents, Members of the Faculty, Fellow Students, and Friends:

As president of the Senior Class of 1968, I take great satisfaction in welcoming you to our Class Day exercises. Today will be one of the most memorable occasions of our lives, for it marks the day we will enter the adult world and assume its responsibilities.

Members of our generation, of our class, will be the leaders of the future, and we must aspire toward better leadership than that provided by any preceding generation.

Fortunately, we have been well trained for this task, thanks to our parents and teachers. Without their help we would not be qualified to accept this great responsibility, and for this assistance and encouragement we wish to express our sincere thanks.

We would also like to thank Mr. Shaw for his patience and unselfishness and Mr. Lacouture, our class advisor, for his understanding and sincerity. And to the members of the Class of '68, whether you are continuing on in school or going to work, I wish the very best of luck and all the happiness in the world.

James Sullivan—President, Class of '68

Class Song

Are we going to find happiness?
Do we know the strength of success?
Perhaps we'll seek the answers to these,
When we start our journey through time.

Tell them to listen and learn what they can,
For we know the virtues of man.
Remember us to those who are here;
Soon they'll be the class of next year.

After we've ventured through acres of life,
We'll have learned the value of faith.
And we will know that one can succeed;
Today we follow, tomorrow we lead.

Class History

Class Day, June 12, 1968. The end of our high school careers is already upon us. Let us look back for a moment at the four short years that now lay behind us.

September of 1964 marked the beginning of our freshman year. Our first order of business was to elect competent class officers. Chosen to serve our class were James Sullivan as President; Patricia Madsen, Vice-President; Barbara Roach, Secretary; James McArdle, Treasurer; and Lorraine Dunn, Class Captain. To represent our class on the Student Council we elected Ralph Baldwin, Frank Piscitelli, and James Sullivan.

Fall sports attracted many of the active members of our class. Some of the athletic boys joined the football team while the girls' field hockey team was supported by Beverly Chapman, Lorraine Dunn, Cynthia Ducharme, Beverly Eramo, Jo-Ann Fudali, Paula Langone, Patricia Madsen, Lois Magill, Donna Piasta, Barbara Roach, Maureen Roberts, Kathy Sisco, and Susan Skamarack. Cynthia Gemme added her support to the athletic teams by becoming one of the most energetic members of the cheerleaders' team.

The Dramatic Club, Debating Club, Glee Club and Science Club are some of the other organizations that were aided by the work of members of the Freshman Class. Ronald Andrews and Denise Nadeau contributed their efforts to the publication of the Reflector.

After a successful conclusion to the fall sports schedule, Paul Tumas, Kenneth Piel, Brennan McLaughlin, Mark Brady, and James McArdle joined the basketball team. James Bekier as a freshman played regularly for the varsity basketball team. Jim's joining of the team started the most successful individual playing career in M.M.H.S. basketball history. The first record to be broken by Jim was the freshman scoring record.

After our first experience with midyears, our whole class looked forward to the presentation of the school play, entitled No More Homework. Freshman members of the Dramatic Club included Susan Fjellman, Patricia White, Mary Malo, Mary Beth Donovan, Linda LaBreck, Denise Nadeau, Kathy Sisco, Marsha White, Gary Vaillancourt, Maureen Roberts and Jo Ann Tebo.

Spring arrived and everyone's thoughts turned to baseball, softball, and track. Jerry Aubin, Mark Brady, Brennan McLaughlin, and James McArdle made the baseball team, and Elaine Dunn, Donna Piasta, Barbara Roach, and Karen Turonis made the softball team. Paul Lacouture was appointed manager of the baseball team by Coach Matson.

David Lowe, Kenneth Tebo, Francis Norman, Ralph Baldwin, Richard Kenary, Paul Ludvigson, Gerald Grenier, Frank Piscitelli, and John Magerowski were all promising freshmen on the track team, which was managed by Gary Vaillancourt.

Summer vacation at last arrived. Everybody needed and deserved the summer's rest, for they knew we had only begun our high school education.

The election of our sophomore class officers immediately followed our return to M.M.H.S. Elected President of the Sophomore Class was Patricia Madsen; Vice-President was Frank Piscitelli; Secretary was James McArdle; Treasurer was Paul Ludvigson, and Class Captain was Ralph Baldwin. Our Student Council representatives were Anthony Mangano, Lorraine Dunn, Patricia Madsen, and James McArdle.

Once again our class strongly supported fall sports as eighteen boys played on the football team and eighteen girls played on the field hockey team.

Howard Davidson, Susan Lowe, and Susan Lavoie once again became members of the band, and Dianne Kuczka, Linda LaBreck, Marsha White, Joan Blair, JoAnn Tebo, Kathy LaBelle, and Linda Anderson became members of the Glee Club. The Dramatic Club attracted sixteen sophomores. Susan Skamarack, Susan Lowe, Patricia White, Lisa Pojani, Paul Jurgelonis and Gary Vaillancourt competed on the Debating Club Team.

There were thirteen members of our class in the Biology Club whose sophomore president was JoAnn Tebo. The French Club, the Reflector Staff, and the Library Staff were also aided by our class members.

In the winter of our busy sophomore year, Lorraine Dunn, Elaine Dunn, Patricia Madsen, Beverly Chapman, Lisa Pojani, Donna Piasta, Susan West, Lois Magill, Karen Turonis, and Kathy LaBelle played for the girls' basketball team, Paul Ludvigson, Paul Tumas, Mark Brady, and James Bekier all played varsity basketball as sophomores, and by the end of the season Jim Bekier had broken the sophomore scoring record.

The Whole Town's Talking was presented by the Dramatic Club in the spring of our sophomore year. Members of the cast included Gary Vaillancourt and sophomore actresses Mary Malo and Denise Nadeau.

During the spring of '66, six boys of our class played on the baseball team, and six sophomore girls played on the softball team. Eight boys who were also members of our class participated on the track team while Donald Briddon, James Bekier, and John Brady joined the newly formed golf team.

Gladly, we met the arrival of our summer vacation. We realized we had finished half of our high school years and now thought that we could possibly survive the next two.

We returned to school the following September as upperclassmen and we had our class rings to prove it. The members of our ring selection committee were James Bekier, Beverly Chapman, Cynthia Ducharme, Paul Ludvigson, and Anthony Mangano.

The President of the Junior Class was Patricia Madsen; Vice-President, James McArdle; Secretary, Beverly Chapman; Treasurer, Lorraine Dunn; and Class Captain, Beverly Eramo. Beverly Chapman, Anthony Mangano, Patricia Madsen, and James McArdle were elected to serve on the Student Council.

Twelve members of our class joined the football team and fourteen of our girls were on the field hockey team. Juniors on Millbury High's first cross-country team in many years were Ralph Baldwin, David Lowe, and Richard Mahan. Lorraine Kipp became a member of the cheerleaders' team, and her added enthusiasm was immediately evident. At the end of the football season, Mark Brady was awarded a plaque for establishing a new school record for the most touchdown passes thrown in a single season.

Our congratulations were extended to Susan Fjellman, Ralph Baldwin, Maureen Roberts, and Anthony Mangano, who were named Horace Mann Students for having maintained a scholastic average of 9 or better for two consecutive years.

The Debating, Dramatic, and Science Clubs still attracted a large number of members of our class and other members of our class continued to donate their efforts to the library and office staffs.

As a fitting reward for raising the most money in the school magazine drive, our class for the third consecutive year was given the $50 bonus for the highest class sales.

The basketball teams were supported by a total of eleven members of our class. James Bekier broke the scoring record for juniors and was awarded the Most Valuable Player Trophy at the end of the season.

At the annual Science Fair, Ralph Baldwin, won first prize with his project "The Solution to Space Travel." Members of our class who received honorable mention were Steven Norbeck, Francis Norman, Paul Lacouture, Brennan McLaughlin, Frank Piscitelli, Anthony Mangano, and James McArdle.

The Dramatic Club's production of Onions in the Stew featured Paul Jurgelonis and Mary Beth Donovan.

Once again with the arrival of spring many members of our class participated in sports. Brennan McLaughlin, Mark Brady, and James McArdle played baseball, while six girls of the junior class played softball. Six boys of our class were prominent members of the track team.

The annual induction ceremonies of the National Honor Society were held in May. Ralph Baldwin, James Bekier, Mary Brady, Mary Beth Donovan, Thomas Ham, Paul Lacouture; Lois Magill, Anthony Mangano, James McArdle, Brennan McLaughlin, Maureen Roberts, Gary Vaillancourt, and Marsha White were awarded membership in the N.H.S.

The climax to our school year, our Junior Prom, co-chairmaned by Beverly Chapman and Mary Beth Donovan was held on the evening of June 9, 1967. The theme was "Oriental Enchantment;" Patricia McKenney was chosen queen of the prom, and members of her court were Judy Whiterell, Linda Stockhaus, Susan Lowe, Karen Turonis, and Gail Valois.

We returned to school in September to begin conducting all of the important business of a graduating class. We elected James Sullvian, President, Lorraine Dunn, Vice-President; Beverly Chapman, Secretary; Paul Ludvigson, Treasurer; and Beverly Eramo, Class Captain. Seniors on the Student Council were Elaine Dunn, Beverly Chapman, Gerald Grenier, James Sullivan, and James McArdle.

Football veterans, Mark Brady and Anthony Mangano, co-captained the football team, also supported by Paul Ludvigson, Paul Tumas, Steven Norbeck, Brennan McLaughlin, Michael Morin, Steven Grandone, Paul Lacouture, Gerald Grenier, and James McArdle. The team was managed by Gary Vaillancourt. After the season ended, Mark Brady received an award for breaking the record for the most touchdown passes thrown by any single player in school history, and Gerald Grenier was awarded the Most Valuable Player Trophy.

Patricia Madsen and Barbara Roach were co-captains of the field hockey team which received the aid of eleven other senior girls.

Editor-in-Chief of the Reflector for the coming year was Joan Blair. Marsha White was chosen Literary Editor; Dianne Kuczka, Feature Editor; Patricia White, Art Editor; and Cynthia Gemme, Business Manager. These editors were assisted by twenty-one other members of our class.

In December we began planning for our yearbook, the Aftermath. Competent Ralph Baldwin was elected Editor. Chosen as Ralph's assistants were Anthony Mangano, Barbara Roach, Mary Beth Donovan, and Susan Skamarack. Beverly Chapman was elected to the important position of Business Manager of the Aftermath. Elected as her assistants were Paul Lacouture, Paula Langone, Joan Blair, Beverly Eramo, and Patricia White.

In January enthusiastic preparations for our Senior Prom were already begun. Mary Beth Donovan was chosen chairman of the Decorating Committee and Denise Nadeau her assistant. "Somewhere My Love" was chosen the theme of our prom, held January 26, 1968.

Queen of the Prom was Patricia White, and in her court were Karen Turonis, Patricia McKenney, Patricia Madsen, and Judy Whiterell.

In athletics a total of eleven seniors strengthened the girls' and boys' basketball teams. Co-captains for the girls' team were Elaine Dunn and Lisa Pojani. James Bekier was captain of the boys' team and for the second successive year Jim was chosen Most Valuable Player.

In February our class learned that our superintendent, Mr. Beaton, and our principal, Mr. Shaw, would retire soon after our graduation. We realized the tremendous amount of work these men had done for us and how fortunate we were to have had their help and guidance through our years at M.M.H.S.

Our congratulations went to Patricia White who won a silver medal in the Massachusetts State Speech Festival. This was truly an honor for Pat and our school. First place winners of the Science Fair were Anthony Mangano and James McArdle. Second place was won by Paul Jurgelonis and Gary Manoogian. Third place was shared by Ralph Baldwin and by Frank Piscitelli and John Magerowski.

Letters of Commendation for outstanding performance in the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Tests went to Ralph Baldwin, Joan Blair, Anthony Mangano, and Susan Skamarack. Later, Elaine Dunn received the D.A.R. Good Citizenship Award.

In early spring Joan Blair, Susan Burak, Howard Davidson, Paul Jurgelonis, and Donna Piasta were the seniors inducted into the National Honor Society at the Society's annual assembly.

The play Stardust was chosen to be the Dramatic Club's production for 1968. Main characters were portrayed by Patricia White, Paul Jurgelonis, Marsha White, Gerald Grenier, and Gary Vaillancourt.

Class Day and graduation rapidly approached. The Senior Honor Students, as announced by Mr. Shaw, were Joan Blair, Maureen Roberts, Ralph Baldwin, Sharon Rossetti, Anthony Mangano, James McArdle, Marsha White, Thomas Ham, Dianne Kuczka, Patricia Madsen, Paul Lacouture, Kathy Sisco, Donna Piasta, Mary Beth Donovan, Susan Burak, Anne Connor, John Magerowski, Brennan McLaughlin, Susan Skamarack, and Lorraine Dunn.

Joan Blair, Maureen Roberts, Ralph Baldwin and Sharon Rossetti, the top four class scholars, were appointed graduation speakers.

Another spring sports season soon arrived, and fifteen members of our class participation in baseball, softball and track.

Class Day was not now far away. Class Day speakers were chosen; Paul Ludvigson and Barbara Roach, Class Gifts, Gerald Grenier, Class Prophecy; Richard Mahan, Omissions and Corrections; Beverly Eramo, Last Will and Testament; Patricia Madsen, Class Statistics; and James McArdle, Class History.

Members of the Motto Committee were Brennan McLaughlin, Paula Langone, and Donna Piasta, and the Song Committee consisted of Jo Ann Tebo, Steven Norbeck, and Cynthia Gemme. The committee to select the ties for our Graduation Exercises consisted of Arthur Sparrow and Richard Mahan.

Class Day, June 12, 1968—we sense many emotions —satisfaction, regret, joy, and sorrow. Although we now sadly witness the end of our high school years, we eagerly anticipate the opportunities that lie before us.

Class Prophecy

It is another day in the life of the internationally famous news reporter Claude Cronkitis. When Claude rose he knew this was going to be an unusual day. After showering he sat down to read his paper finding that he would have some lively news to report today.

He finds that Richard Kenary has arrived at the Straits of Magellan. Richard, therefore, is the first ever to drive a trailer truck non-stop from Nome, Alaska to the tip of South America. When Richard was asked how he financed his trip he stated, "The Millbury Credit Union loaned me the money."

Other news from the motor world is that Robert Roy set a new record at the "Daytona 500." He says he owes congratulations to the designers of the car, James McArdle and Anthony Mangano. Robert also praises the work of his pit crew, James Stockwell, Ronald Smith, Theodore Renauld, David Arnold, Michael Lopriore and Andrew Lavoie. The car, produced by the Steve Norbeck and Francis Norman Motor Company, set a lap record of 250 m.p.h.

As Claude turns the page to read Mary Malo's gossip column, he notices that violence has broken out in Greece. He also finds that the skirmish was caused by a student rebellion led by Paul Boria. The king of Greece, James William Cristo III, is working hard to prevent further violence.

In the fashion world he reads that the internationally acclaimed fashion designer. Mary Beth Donovan, is presenting a fashion show today. Her models are Sandra Anderson, Sheila Blanchard, Barbara Bowker, Marsha Westerman, Jo-Ann Fudali, and Barbara Roach.

Also in the headlines, President James Sullivan has sent his Ambassador-at-large Paul Jurgelonis to India to try to find a solution to India's economic situation. The President also sent economists Frank Piscitelli, Donna Piasta, Paul Lacouture, Jo Ann Tebo and Brennan McLaughlin to assist Mr. Jurgelonis.

Claude finishes reading his paper only to find that he will be late for work. While driving over the speed limit on his way to work he is stopped by Patrolman Russell Gover, who gives him a ticket.

As Claude arrives at his office, his secretary Lorraine Dunn hands him his schedule for the day. A quick glance at the list shows that he will have a busy schedule and that he will have to work hard in order to be ready to give his 6:30 report on TV.

First on his list of appointments is an interview with the Women's Activity Group from a nearby town. Representing the group are Linda Cammuso, Susan Burak, Eileen Fournier, Charlotte Hamilton, Beverly Chapman, Susan Lowe and Beverly Eramo. They propose a revolutionary form of police department governed by women.

Next on his list is an interview with a foreign correspondent from Italy, Kenneth Tebo. Kenny says that a military coup is in the making. He also says that their President, Donald Laconto, is in danger of being assassinated. Leaders of the revolt are Sharon Rossetti, Mary DiCandia, Stephen Grandone, Joseph Stepenovitch and Paula Langone. Grandone is believed to be the leader of the revolt. He is known to be the leader of the Maffia and has a long list of offenses dating back to his days in Room 28 at M.H.S.

In the sports world, news has arrived that the golf team of James Bekier and Donald Briddon has taken first and second places in the British Open. James and Donald both have been outstanding golfers ever since their days at Millbury Memorial High School.

Also on his list of interviews is one with several of the Academy Award Nominees for 1968. Among those nominated were Patricia White for Best Actress, and Bob Snow for Best Achievement in Sound for their work in "Seventh Period Study Hall or Animal Farm, Millbury High Style."

Claude has one more interview this morning before he leaves for lunch and that is with the U. S. Women Olympic Team, which consists of Lorraine Kipp, Elaine Dunn, Patricia Madsen, Mary Graveline, Lisa Pojani, Karen Turonis and Kathy Sisco. Their coaches Lois Magill and Cynthia Ducharme say that the girls should do good in this summer's games.

For lunch Claude goes to his favorite restaurant the "Poisoned Apple" owned by Alan White. There he dines with John Magerowski and David Howard who are reporters from the Reflector. After being greeted by the hostess, Susan Fjellman, they are served by Cynthia Gemme, Linda LaBreck and Susan Skamarack. After dining John and David inform Claude of some of the latest news.

It seems that Howard Davidson, a reporter stationed in Havana, has sent word that Fidel Castro while reporting on the state of Cuba in 1988 says that in addition to a shortage of sugar cane, tobacco, wheat and water, Cuba is also suffering from a shortage of Cubans. David also told Claude that his Reflector Washington Correspondent, Bernard Drudis, reports that the Senator from Louisiana, David Lowe, has introduced a bill abolishing the death penalty in the country. The bill will probably be opposed by the southern states in favor of states rights which is led by the Lady Senator from Tennessee, Roseanne Poulin. The bill will have to be presented to the committee concerning Constitutional Law which is chairmaned by Gary Vaillancourt. Also on the committee are Michael Morin, Judith Lyons, Gary Vostok and Virginia Newman.

Also in Congress Rep. Thomas Ham has introduced a bill barring women from Congress. Tom gives as a reason in support of the bill, that women members of Congress cause lengthy filibustering.

Claude says good-bye to his friends and leaves in a taxi for his office. When Claude passes a newsstand operated by Francis Hisoire he stops to buy the latest issue of Life and finds an interesting article. The article is entitled "Man on Venus" about the recent success of our American astronauts landing on Venus. Heading our team of astronauts was Kenneth Piel. Other military personnal on the voyage were Gary Manoogian, and Dennis Hughes. Completing the crew were two civilians, Dr. Alan Whiterell, an expert on interplanetary travel, and our first woman astronaut, Dr. Dianne Kuczka, who was the medical officer on the voyage. The landing party found that they weren't the only life on Venus and that there were other beings occupying the planet. Col. Piel was greeted by a welcoming party consisting of Joseph Zimage, Thomas Lizotte, Cheryl Masters, Louise Brodeur and Susan Kolofsky who took him to their leader, Raymond Army. Ray introduced our astronauts to his expert on Earth-men, Randolph Dore, who just returned from a voyage of his own to Earth. This confirms the existence of U.F.O.'s which had been predicted by astronomer Lance Rozell.

The space crew, which landed in the Gulf of Mexico on their return voyage, was recovered by the "Good Ship Lollipop", which is under the command of Capt. John Brady. The helicopter crew which recovered our astronauts consisted of Ronald Andrews, John Parsekian, Kevin Bertrand, John Graves, and Joseph Koziara.

Claude placed his magazine down to notice the marquee of the Copa-Ca-Banana Club, which had comedian Paul Ludvigson and the Gary Smith Dancers, which consisted of Linda Anderson, Betty Bernard, Patricia Caron, Doreen Catherwood, Elaine Servant, and Carol Paradis as guests.

Claude returns to his office to co-ordinate his material for his news report. He receives the reports of his editors of women's news from Brenda Couture and Susan Hart and also receives an invitation to a party given by the editor of Cosmopolitan magazine, Anne Connor. A bulletin came from his Paris correspondent, DeGaulle, who is now 97, made his 100th threat to quit if the French people do not cooperate with him in his plan to annex Europe as a French province. A late report from Chicago is that a team of brain specialists headed by Dr. Ralph Baldwin has completed the world's first brain transplant. Other members of the team assisting Dr. Baldwin were Dr. Mark Brady, Dr. Maureen Roberts, and Dr. Susan West. The operation was performed on Mr. Robert Theirrien, a Chicago construction worker. The donor of the brain was unidentified. Miss Judy Whiterell, head nurse and spokesman for the hospital, stated that Mr. Theirrien is in excellent condition.

Claude is notified by the chief engineer, Philip Boisseau, that he will be on the air in five minutes. He enters the studio and is greeted by the weather woman, Joan Blair, who is on following his broadcast. Claude takes his seat and arranges his material just as the light flashes notifying him that he is on the air.

"Good evening, this is Claude Cronkitis reporting the news. In Washington D.C. the wives of American servicemen picketed the White House. They demonstrated against the American involvement in the Middle East. They carried familiar protest signs such as "Yankee Come Home" and "Arabia for the Arabs". Leading the wives were Virginia Robbins, Susan Stewart, Joan Kasputis, Linda Stockhaus, Marsha White, Linda Perkins, and Norma Perry.

In the Pacific today a crew of navy marine biologists and frogmen were rescued as their bathsphere failed while trying to descend into the Marianas Trench. Those rescued were Joseph Provencher, Dennis Mulhane and John Surette.

In New Hampshire today the winners of the New Hampshire sweepstakes were announced. Among those winning top money were Gail Valois, James Sanders, Patricia McKenney, Michael Wilczynski, and Charles Vassar.

In St. Louis, Denise Nadeau was chosen "House Wife of the Year" by Good Housekeeping magazine; other finalists were Deborah Carlow, Kathleen LaBelle, and Claudia Knight.

On the Riviera Arthur Grover Sparrow III and Richard Martin Mahan Jr., both internationally known playboys of the jet-set, have agreed to divide the Riviera so that each of them can operate without interference from the other.

And that is the news, June 13, 1988, and this is Claude Cronkitis saying goodnight and thank you for tuning in."

Last Will and Testament

We, the Graduating Class of 1968, being of sound mind, do hereby make, publish, and declare this document to be our Last Will and Testament.

To Mr. Beaton we leave our wishes for a healthy and happy retirement.

To Mr. Shaw, in behalf of the entire Senior Class, we leave this fishing tackle so he can enjoy many hours of relaxation which he so richly deserves. We Seniors are grateful for everything he has done for us.

To Mr. Roach we leave another" animal farm" to replace seventh period study.

To Mr. Lacouture, our class advisor, we dedicate our Aftermath.

To Miss Grogan we leave a mini-skirt.

To Mr. Chadwick we leave a life-time supply of masking tape.

To Miss Shea we leave a special messenger who will always deliver her lab equipment on time.

To Mr. Howard we leave a book entitled "Life is Funny."

To Mrs. O'Mara we "quietly" leave.

To Miss Brown we leave a class that will be able to go to the French lab more frequently.

To Miss Berthiaume we leave a P.D. class that will meet up to some of the fine standards and qualities found in Grenier, Ham, Jurgelonis, Lacouture, Ludvigson, Vaillancourt, Piscitelli, and Roseanne Poulin.

To Mrs. Dakin we leave a sponge eating garbage disposal for every kitchen unit.

To Miss Donohue we leave a pencil sharpener that will empty itself and thus will remain on the wall.

To Mr. Miles we leave a machine to detect copied homework.

To Mrs. Matthews we leave our thanks for helping us with our Class Day speeches.

To Miss Harrington we leave exactly what she asked for, a handsome male assistant.

To Mr. Matson we leave exactly what he asked for, a blond secretary.

To Mrs. Frederico, a former Grafton High Student, we leave our candolences.

To Mrs. McCarron we leave a class of "good" boys.

To Mr. Capparelli we leave a supply of flannel underwear to be issued to all students upon entrance into his freezing classroom.

To Mr. Faron we leave a Merit Badge for all his hard work with the Student Council.

To Mr. Hayes we leave someone to replace Pat White and Paul Jurgelonis on the Debating Team.

To Mr. Ela we leave the immortal spirits of Jmimy Cristo and Andy Lavoie to remind him of the Class of '68.

To Mr. Bourdeau we leave a recording of his favorite expression, "I'll be all right."

To Mrs. Mullaly we leave a classroom to replace the clinic.

To Mr. Desrosiers we leave a goatee for every summer.

To Mr. Cormier we leave a chemistry class to replace his 5th period class.

To Mr. Wadsworth we leave a recording of "It only hurts when you smile."

To Mr. Ford we leave a biography intitled The Prophet of Provincetown, also subtitled The Life and Times of Gurir Ford.

To Mr. O'Leary we leave a complete book of the current school romances.

To Mr. Graham we leave a bigger hill for the track team to run up and the ski club to ski down.

To Mrs. Bullard, we leave a recording of Mr. Shaw's jokes to remember him by.

To Mr. Smith and Mr. Taft we leave a "White Knight."

To the Student Council we leave someone to replace Jim McArdle as President.

To the football team we leave Kevin McArdle and John Hamilton as co-captains for next year.

To Diane Boutilier we leave Sue Skamarack's well known title of "Senior Class Flirt."

To the future Room 12 we leave a year of being last in lunch line.

To Sue Winiarski we leave the nickname, "Twiggy."

To many deserving juniors we leave our "Student Leader" sweatshirts.

To the future seniors we leave flowers for every Friday.

To Donne Caplette we leave an electric hem which lengthens automatically when Miss Grogan appears.

To Sandy Taraskiewicz we leave Paul Ludvigson's pastime of "poking fun".

To Leslie Elsworthy we leave many more Friday night parties.

To Kenny Bekier we leave Jimmy's place on the golf team.

To the Junior Class we leave the privilege of following us through our four years at M.M. H.S.

To the Sophomore Class we leave the glad note that they are no longer at the bottom of the totem pole.

To the incoming freshmen we leave a warning "Beware of the upperclassmen."

To all the students of M.M. H.S. we leave the best of luck, and the hope that they will experience all the enjoyment our class has had during the past four years.

We, the Senior Class of Millbury Memorial High School, sincerely hope that the people mentioned in the above document are satisfied with their bequests. We trust and hope that there will be no contesting of doubtful privileges bequested to one in preference to another.

GIFTS

To Paul Ludvigson,
An "all-American" boy to say the least;
We give this tiny prayer book,
For we suspect he'll become a priest!

To Barbara Roach,
Who's pretty and prim,
We give three red roses
And say they're from Tim.

PROPHECY

On my recent trip to Paris, I was astonished by a somewhat familiar name on the marquee over the famous Academie Francaise. It read "The Persecution and Assassination of Jean-Paul Marat as performed by the Inmates of the Asylum of Charenton Under the Direction of the Marquis de Sade" by Gerry Grenier. The name was so similar to that of my old classmate, Gerald Grenier, that I had to go backstage and satisfy my curiosity. Sure enough, there was Gerry, now a famous playwright. It seems his psychedelic imagination was discovered by French talent scouts who had watched his performance in the Millbury High production, "Stardust". Don't put anything past the French. If they can't have our gold, they'll steal our talent!

Poverty – What Can Youth Do?

The United States is known as a nation of affluence, yet one-fifth of our people live in poverty. Poverty is not a distant problem, occurring only in Appalachia or Harlem, but is a problem even in our own area. In Worcester many people, white, Negro, and Puerto Rican, live in slums. These people are not necessarily stupid or lazy; they could be brought out of poverty through educational programs. Here is where we, as the future adults of our country, can help.

Any person who has fulfilled the requirements for a high school diploma can help another young person in his school work, teach a Spanish-speaking person to communicate in English, or assist in social or recreational programs. Through neighborhood centers, such as Prospect House and Open Door in Worcester, we can share our education and culture with others of different racial and economic backgrounds. High school and college students can volunteer to be counselors and teachers in group programs or tutors on a one-to-one basis. Here, children who are often neglected at home can receive individual attention and be encouraged to develop their own interests and talents.

Although poverty has existed since ancient times and has been handed down from generation to generation, the response of today's young people to anti-poverty programs shows that we are determined to eliminate this problem. Seventy-five percent of VISTA volunteers are between the ages of eighteen and twenty-five. These people receive a six-week training course and then volunteer their services to the various anti-poverty programs. Volunteers have helped many people attain self-respect and become self-sufficient, useful citizens.

The solution to the problem of poverty lies not in charity or protest marches, but in education and programs to clean up slums. Educational programs such as Project Head Start and Upward Bound try to give children a chance in school. Head Start teachers and volunteers give individual attention and educational, social, and cultural oportunities to preschool children. The purpose of this program is to place poor children on an equal footing with other children, so that they will be able to do equally well in school.

The Upward Bound program utilizes the services of college students in tutoring high school students. The eight-week summer program takes place on college campuses and is designed to help low-income students who have college aptitudes but who would not go to college without special encouragement. Again, young people can help other young people to help themselves.

Helping others is not all giving. By giving our services to others, we can gain a deeper understanding of what we want to do with our lives. We can also learn valuable lessons in understanding other cultures and eliminating prejudice, to create a world where all can live together peacefully and happily. The future of our country depends on us, and we have the choice of allowing poverty to continue and be handed down to the next generation, or of trying to eliminate poverty by providing educational and cultural opportunities for the poor. The slum does not have to be part of the American way of life.

Freedom of Speech in Action

American college students today are healthier, wealthier, and more numerous than ever before, and like never before they are making their numbers felt. This is a generation of protest, of anger, too. Yet most of the anger is not irrational; it is rather based on honest inquiry and honest concern. Today's youth are demanding that their questions be heard and that forthright answers be given, if there are such answers.

In the past year there has been a rising wave of youthful protest. Is this student unrest that is so prevalent today good or bad? Opinion is naturally divided. Protest is good if it is honest, if the protester as an individual truly believes in his commitment. It becomes bad when violence and destruction are permitted to override original intentions. When individuals protest, it is because they hold an unconventional viewpoint and want to express their ideas. This is both good and necessary. For how can a society, a nation, progress if ideas are stagnant, if no one has the courage to stand and be heard? It is only when the irresponsible and uninformed join in that protest becomes bad. They cause the honest motivation to be buried and make a mockery of legitimate protest.

Is the youthful protest that we see around us a dominant factor in our generation? Will it, in the future, strengthen or will it weaken the structure of our American society? A survey of campus protests conducted by the National Student Association revealed that within a recent two month period, there were 71 demonstrations in all. Who is responsible for these numerous student demonstrations? It is not the "outsiders", but the "insiders"—the students themselves. It is true that the number of students involved in demonstrations is small in relation to the student population, but the caliber of the few is high. Activists usually turn out to be the brightest and most articulate students—the top 5 or 10 per cent academically.

Those who march and demonstrate are not so much protesting against as they are protesting for—for an America that is humane and wholesome, where full development of the individual can be realized. The new generation of Americans is, in a profound sense, a patriotic generation. It is also an optimistic generation. Though these are dark times for our country, they are not without promise: this new generation, tempered in crisis, is re-examining the values of American life and adapting them to present circumstances.

Graduation . . . or Commencement?

Tonight, I believe the experiences of the past twelve years are foremost in our minds. Our school program has carried us a long way—from "Dick and Jane" readers to Shakespearean drama; from arithmetic to trigonometry; from general scientific observations to studies of complex chemical reactions. Many of us have learned the meaning of sportsmanship as members of Millbury's athletic teams. And all these experiences seem to reflect the avowed purposes of our secondary school educations: to develop an ability to communicate on mathematical, verbal, and scientific levels and an understanding of socially accepted standards of conduct and character.

Many of us will now go on to higher education at various schools and universities. Some will serve in the armed forces. Still others will enter immediately into particular trades or professions. Such will be the varied paths of tonight's graduating class.

The question I pose before you is, "Has our education been all that we think?" It may seem to many on the stage or in the audience that tonight's ceremonies signify a graduation or a completion, but perhaps we should be aware of Cardinal Newman's philosophy on the subject before reaching such a conclusion.

This nineteenth century poet, author, and religious leader points out in his thesis The Idea of A University that the secondary school student's mind is little more than an instrument for taking in facts, or a receptacle for storing them. Thus, the student leaving for college is still a product of external influences.

To know a great deal is a virtue but it is not an education. The passion to become educated must involve much more than reaching for facts or skills; it is not at all the simple desire to be knowledgeable. So many people today mistake information for knowledge, looking upon science, with its detached, analytic, objective method, as the exclusive way of gaining truth. But facts are only tools and means to an end, at best.

Cardinal Newman suggests that this end, the ultimate goal in education, is an expansion of mind. Let me define this term according to Newman, "The expansion consists not merely of the passive reception into the mind of a number of ideas hitherto unknown to it, but in the mind's energetic and simultaneous action upon and towards and among those new ideas, which are rushing in upon it. It is the action of formative power, reducing to order and meaning the information received.

But many of us, once again, mistakenly view the twelfth grade graduation as an achievement of the order and meaning that Newman placed far beyond us in his concept of education. In fact, aren't the deficiencies of our twelve years of public schooling obvious?

Perhaps most outstanding is the public schools' failure to instill leadership qualities in its students. Granted there is some leadership to be experienced in the classroom and on the athletic field, but I believe that virtues such as individuality and personal initiative are generally neglected in the public schools.

Another area in which there are apparent deficiencies is English. Many colleges protest that freshmen are unable to write or speak effectively. Some cannot even spell "effectively." By contrast, more demanding European secondary school standards require that a student be able to write and speak flawlessly if he is to graduate.

Or do we offer the courses in the humanities and social sciences which we might offer to broaden the horizons of our students? Small wonder, then, that society is graduating classes of technological tools insensitive to the richness and deepness of life. Frank Lloyd Wright said it well: "This is a stupid age—it does not know and does not care that it lives in ugliness."

Enough said. But, more important, aren't these seemingly glaring deficiencies only in the minds of those who have placed a time limit on education? Aren't the shortcomings of a secondary school education only in the minds of those who have believed in a terminal process?

Then let us reconcile ourselves, fellow graduates, to the period of expansion of mind to come. Let us be aware that education never ceases, and in that sense, that tonight's ceremony should be rightly termed a commencement.

Today's Generation

How many times have young people heard the phrase, "When I was your age . . .," followed by such lines as "we were never that wild," or "I used to walk three miles to school," or "I was lucky if I got five cents for mowing the lawn"? I think that every young person has heard these words many times, perhaps because we are considered by many to be lazy, disrespectful, immoral, and wild. But how deserving are we of these epithets? Times have changed, moral standards appear to have changed, but have people really changed? There have always been those who want changes and want them now, regardless of the cost. There have always been those who are wild, greedy, or dissolute. So why do adults see today's young people as arrogant, impatient, and dissatisfied?

One answer is that television, radio, magazines, and newspapers publicize and magnify the deeds of some members of today's generation and suggest that their conduct is representative of the majority of youth. For example, the recent Columbia University riots were given considerable attention by all the news media. With students shouting, rioting, and destroying, adults couldn't help but ask what was happening to today's youth. Newspapers and magazines have published many articles concerning the increase in crime among today's younger generation. Young men who protest the war in Vietnam or who try to evade the draft are considered to be unpatriotic, regardless of their motives. And so, when an adult sees a young protestor or college student, he is immediately thought to be immoral, radical, or just plain selfish.

I'm not condemning these young people, nor am I defending them. But it is unfortunate that the actions of these few young people reflect upon the rest of us.

And so rarely does one see an article on the helpful and rewarding things today's generation does. For example, in our school, some of the girls work with the slow learners each week. Another project has recently been started under the direction of Clark University students, in which Millbury students will work with Puerto Rican children for a few hours each week. Young people have entered the fields of science, medicine, education, and business. Still others work to support themselves and their families. Others are serving in the armed forces overseas. Most are doing something helpful and meaningful.

Today's generation is not one consisting primarily of immoral and lazy young people. Such persons have always existed and always will. But today, responsible youths are speaking and thinking about everything from school systems to politics. We have become a thinking generation, where young people use intelligence and insight to evaluate themselves and their actions. According to Eugene McCarthy, "Today's youth are demanding that their questions be heard and that answers be given." Adults should realize that the majority of young people are dependable and intelligent and are working to better their own lives and their country.

May I, Miss Skamarack?

I wonder what he's doing tonight . . .

Therefore, students, what goes up must come down.

Shake it up, baby ???

DANGER!

Really, is that right?

Wow! It's over!

Lacouture, get that tree out of my face!

Ah, when do I speak?

Oh, I can't find it!

Stand up, Ronnie, it's your turn!
